The Viewing
Point

A wide-angle architectural rendering of a modern urban development. In the foreground, a couple stands on a glass-enclosed rooftop terrace, looking out over the city. The terrace has a white metal railing. Below them, a landscaped promenade with palm trees and walkways leads to a waterfront area. Several tall, modern skyscrapers are visible, including one with the name 'EWAAR' on its upper section. The buildings have a mix of glass and light-colored panels. In the background, a body of water with small boats and a bridge is visible under a clear blue sky.
